CLASS PENSIONS.

Something About Medals of Honor-The 55th · Ind. at Richmond, Ky.

EDITOR NATIONAL TRIBUNE: I notice in a recent issue of your good paper a communication regarding special pensions for "Medal Honor" men. I have often thought I would like to write a few words one who was disabled in the service should GEO. V. RYAN, Co. G. 15th N. Y. Cav. have a pension commensurate with his disability, and that his widow should be pensioned. This the Government promised, just as much as it promised to pay the bondholders. I believe also that the pension for age disability is just; but when it comes to introducing bills for extra pensions for those who were prisoners of war, or have Medals of Honor, etc., I believe we injure our cause. Give pensions to all who are disabled from prison life, but not merely because they were prisoners. If these bills became laws they would make distinctions that did not exist-every man who took part in a bayonet charge, or a saber charge, or who supported a battery in action, exhibited just as much bravery as any man could; but tens of thousands of soldiers just as brave, never had these opportunities, but were faithful to every trust. Some men had a little more dash in their makeup than others; but that did not indicate greater bravery, or make them more deserving of honor or honor of any one, let me illustrate: The 27th Me., whose term of enlistment expired a few days before the battle of Gettysburg, volunteered to remain in service and assist in repelling Lee. For this they were voted Medals of Honor by Congress. It was a disinterested act, and many were killed or wounded, at a time when they were under no legal obligation to remain in the field. The widows and orphans they were under no legal obligation to re-main in the field. The widows and orphans main in the field. The widows and orphans of those who were killed and those who incurred disabilities were granted pensions.

The 55th Ind. was a three-months regiment. Its term of enlistment expired Aug. 27, 1862. It was then at Richmond, Ky. Gen. M. D. Manson called the regiment into line, and stated that a largely-superior force, under Kirby Smith, was marching processing the served in Co. F. 121st Pa., and was a member of the farm on which he died.

PICKERING.—At McCook, Neb., June 24, James Fickering. He was born near Cincinnati, O., and there enlisted in Co. B, 2d Ohio H. A., in 1863, at the age of 17, and served until the close of the war. A few years later he settled in California, where he prospered as a fruit grower, stock raiser and banker.

PERSING.—At his home, near Bissell Park, Venango County, Pa., June 9, Daniel Persing, aged 78 years. He served in Co. F, 121st Pa., and was a member of the farm on which he died.

will be wounded; if you all wish to go, you will be wounded; if you all wish to go, you will have the opportunity; but those who will volunteer to remain in this emergency little three paces to the front." Every man STAFFORD.—At Snohomish, Wash., June 5, John step three paces to the front." Every man promptly stepped to the front and received the thanks of the General. On Friday, Aug. 29, in the afternoon, the long roll sounded, and the 55th Ind.

rushed into line; received the order to march, and on the double-quick, went out toward the enemy. A slight skirmish took place and a small field gun was captured from the rebels. That night the men lay upon their larms, and before daylight on the morning of the 30th coffee and hard-tack were served, and soon after sunrise the advance was begun. The writer was sent with a detail of 12 men of the 55th Ind. to discover, and I might say, uncover, the enemy for that was what we did. We advanced some 300 yards in front of the regiment, when we discovered a number of men on horseback, several hundred yards to our right front-undoubtedly a General and his staff—probably Kirby Smith himself. Our squad immediately fired upon them, and they galloped back over the hill. The regiment came up and at once filed into a field on the left, and formed in line of battle; a battery took position in front of us, while the enemy was still invisible-not for long, however. A battery turned loose a bunch of timber within easy range. At the first fire Corp'ls Beaman and Colwell-I think of Co. G—just to my left, were killed, and Homer Sering, of Co. C, was struck upon the head a glancing blow, by a grape shot; but not seriously wounded. We were ordered to lie down and load, then rise and fire. While lying on my right side loading my gun I was struck by a ball which entered the body on the right side of the last lumbar vertebra. I was taken 15, 1904.)

self felt after nearly 42 years. The next morning our Colonel, John R. Mahan, than whom a braver man or better officer did not exist, mustered a small remnant of the fine body of men he led into Rolls. the fight. The rest were killed, wounded or captured. This remnant was marched to Maysville, Ky., and proceeded by boat to Cincinnati, and thence by rail to Indian-apolis, where they were paid their monthly pittance, and disbanded. So far as I know, not one received a written discharge; all were sent home with nothing to show Pension, Act of June 27, 1890. that they had been legally in the U. The observance of Memorial Day here was the greatest event of the kind ever seen in this section. There was singing, prayer, addresses, readings, recitations by 10 little girls clad in the colors of the Flag, each lettered in green cedar upon her breast, the bevy spelling "Decoration." There is no Post here, but the veterans were given the seats of honor, in front of the rostrum. Everything was wreathed in flags and bloom and evergreen. In the procession the veterans had the post of honor, and were escorted by a company of boys and girls, drilled by a veteran of the Philippine war, Andrew Timmons.
